Aleksandra Puleska

Combining my skills as a programmer and designer, I specialize in creating web apps from concept to deployment. Proficient in web design tools, I create interfaces that seamlessly meld aesthetics with functionality, all while ensuring they align with brand identity. My coding expertise facilitates a smooth translation of designs into fully functional applications. With a focus on user experience and accessinility, I harness iterative feedback to refine apps into intuitive, engaging, and technically sound products. My versatile skill set enables me to be a valuable asset in the end-to-end app development process.
